DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-1^{me}5 are allowable over the prior art of record.
2. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

As per independent claims 1,6,11, the recited claim limitations are taught piecemeal by the prior art of record, however, the pieces of prior art derive from different processes in the speech recognition art area, and each reference lacks adequate reasoning for combining the three references. The first reference, Hutchins (5208897) teaches obtaining a spelling of a sentence group from a speech recognition dictionary storage with baseforms (fig. 4a, col. 11 line 45 – col. 12 line 40); or alternatively, Hutchins is directed towards speech recognition. The second reference, Contolini (6233553), teaches recognition of spoken sounds (col. 2 lines 55-59), transcribed (col. 2 lines 60-67), and stored into memory via a trained sound dictionary (col. 2 lines 48-50), building the dictionary (col. 2 lines 51-55)), including spelling of the word (col. 2 lines 55-56); or alternatively, Contolini (6233553) is directed toward phonetic transcriptions of spelled words in building speech models for eventual use in real-time speech recognition applications. The third piece of prior art, IBM TDB, is directed toward building word models using sounds-like spellings for eventual use in real time speech recognition applications. There is not adequate reasons given in any of the prior art of record to combine the three references.

Art Unit: 2655

Since Hutchins does not mention word registration, it is not clear as to why there would any motivation to combine Hutchins with Contolini or IBM TDB. Furthermore, there is no reasonable expectation of success with the combination of Hutchins in view of Contolini in further view of IBM TDB.

As per claims 2-5,7-10, and 12-15, the recited claim limitations pertaining to a speech recognition system utilizing a sounds like spelling scores in conjunction with a two layer voice recognition process is not explicitly taught by the prior art of record.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
